

New hockey multiplayer during NHL and KHL championships?!? What else is needed for the best iPad game!

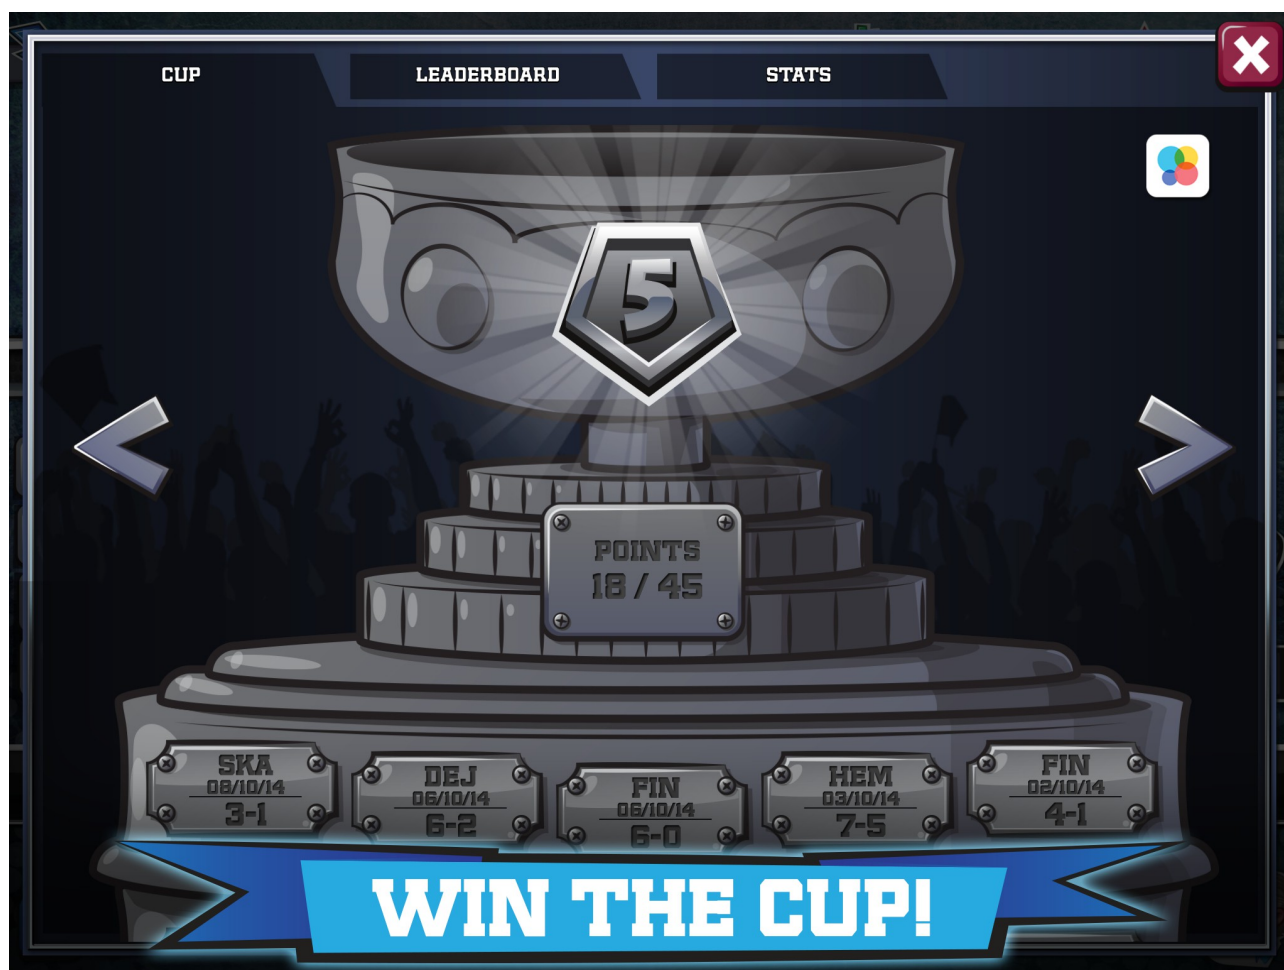

Creeng's new hockey manager is already at the Apple Store.

10/19/2014 – Yes, it has finally happened! Creeng has announced the release of its new edition of the multiplayer game «Hockey Legends». App has been launched at the Apple Store right after the World Hockey Cup in Minsk, and now the new update perfectly overlaps with NHL and KHL championships. This definitely has brought even higher attention from hockey fans to «Hockey Legends». iPad owners are already enjoying all features of the App and in the future it might come out for other devices as well.

«Hockey Legends» is not an average hockey manager. The App combines an amazing number of elements which any genre competitor can only dream about. Gameplay is pretty simple – free-to-play multiplayer which allows arranging mini hockey championships between users online.

The aim of the game is to promote a team to the highest division starting from the lowest. It all goes along with trainings, matches, changing stadiums, purchasing new players and inventory. It's worth mentioning an impressive variety of graphic elements borrowed from the real hockey world, which will definitely please the real fans.

In the updated version of the App players are able to participate in mini tournaments, designed for 5-7 days by the game creators. Getting bonuses and various prizes, not to mention Cups of different divisions – is definitely among many strong points of the game.

Moreover, users are able to interactively participate in the simulated matches and completely immerse into the game atmosphere.

Game creators are not planning to stop on achieved and already working on the new elements. It won't take long for an upgraded version of «Hockey Legends» to come out, in which match simulation will be also updated – will be added controlled images of real players, and this will be like a cherry on top!
